HEADMASTER'S MESSAGE

"THE ROAD AHEAD"

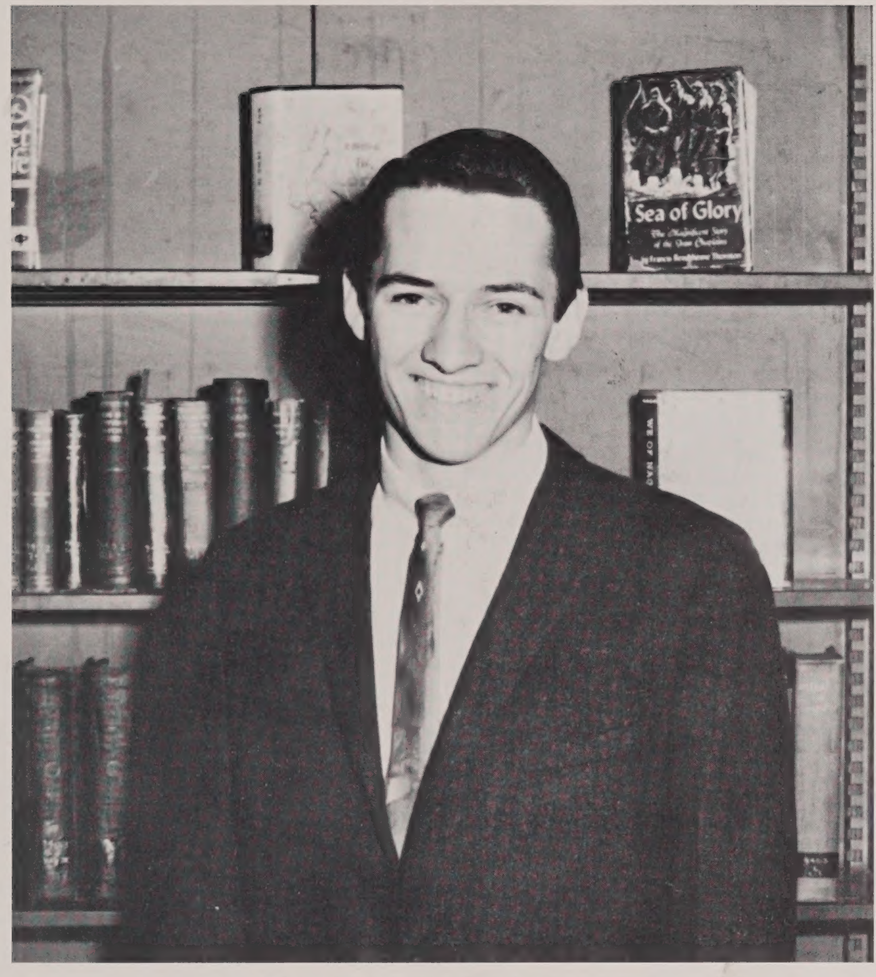
The theme of our school magazine during the past year has been "New Frontiers." These are the areas into which our seniors will sooner or later go, after graduation. The problem is what shall they face in these new frontiers.

There are so many possibilities in the field of science, of space, of automation, of government, that no simple solution can be found for each individual problem. The challenges are so great that they will tax the energies of the most ingenious.

So what may our seniors do to face the new challenges? Certainly there are a few fundamental procedures for all to follow. First, each person should choose the field of activity which is of most interest to him. Second, each individual should work diligently in whatever channel he feels will bring him success. Finally, we all can trust in and have faith in the Lord, for as Longfellow wrote in "Evangeline," "God is in His heaven and governs the world He created."

Advice is easy to give; not so easy to follow. It is better to choose a few rules of procedure for ourselves and follow them.

We wish success to all our graduates.



GORDON MORRISON

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

It has indeed been a great pleasure and privilege for me to serve as president of the Senior Class during this past year.

We, the future leaders of the United States, after twelve years of preparation, are about to leave the confines of the classroom to go before the world.

I ask that, before we proceed, we recall our first school years in order to realize more fully the true meaning of education.

When we first entered school, we thought of it as a "new and wonderful world," one in which we made many new friends and thought ourselves as being all grown-up.

Later, as we entered junior high school, we discovered that we were missing some important activities such as skating, swimming and baseball, just to mention a few. At that time we thought school to be useless, for we had to spend a certain amount of our time learning things that in no way would help us to enjoy life as we then saw it.

In our sophomore year we were on the brink between work and play, and it was not until our junior year that we decided to settle down to more work and less play. This was the year in which we prepared seriously for college or for the business world. We now realize that all these years of schooling have served to prepare us for the world in which we live.

We know that, at the end of the school year, we shall be prepared to face all the problems, challenges and responsibilities that await us.

Now we are gathered here for the last time, knowing that our opportunities for education and our ability to be fine democratic citizens has been made possible through the efforts of our teachers and parents. To them we offer our most heartfelt gratitude and thanks. Let us strive to be worthy of their sacrifices and help, so that posterity may say of us, "The world is better because they lived."

EDITORS' MESSAGE

Fellow Classmates:

We, the editors of the 35th edition of the Gothic, are proud to present to you, the graduates of 1963, these memoirs of the "Castle on the Hill." We sincerely hope that these pages will serve as a pleasant reminder of the past.

We have thoroughly enjoyed helping to prepare this yearbook for you. Our greatest appreciation is extended to Mr. Kelliher, yearbook sponsor; Miss Pelletier, business advisor; and Miss Gilman, literary advisor. We would also like to thank Miss Glennon, Mrs. Heyward, Miss Marshall, Miss O'Leary and the rest of the faculty and student body without whose efforts the production would not have been possible.

Now as graduation draws near, we would like to proffer our wishes of success and happiness in the years to come.

① TO THE CASTLE ON THE HILL WE
② TO OUR FRIENDS BOTH NEW AND OLD IT'S BID A FOND FARE- WELL. WHAT LIES A- HEAD FOR TIME TO SAY A- DIEU. THE KNOW-LEDGE WE HAVE US IN LIFE THE FU-TURE WILL FORE- TELL.
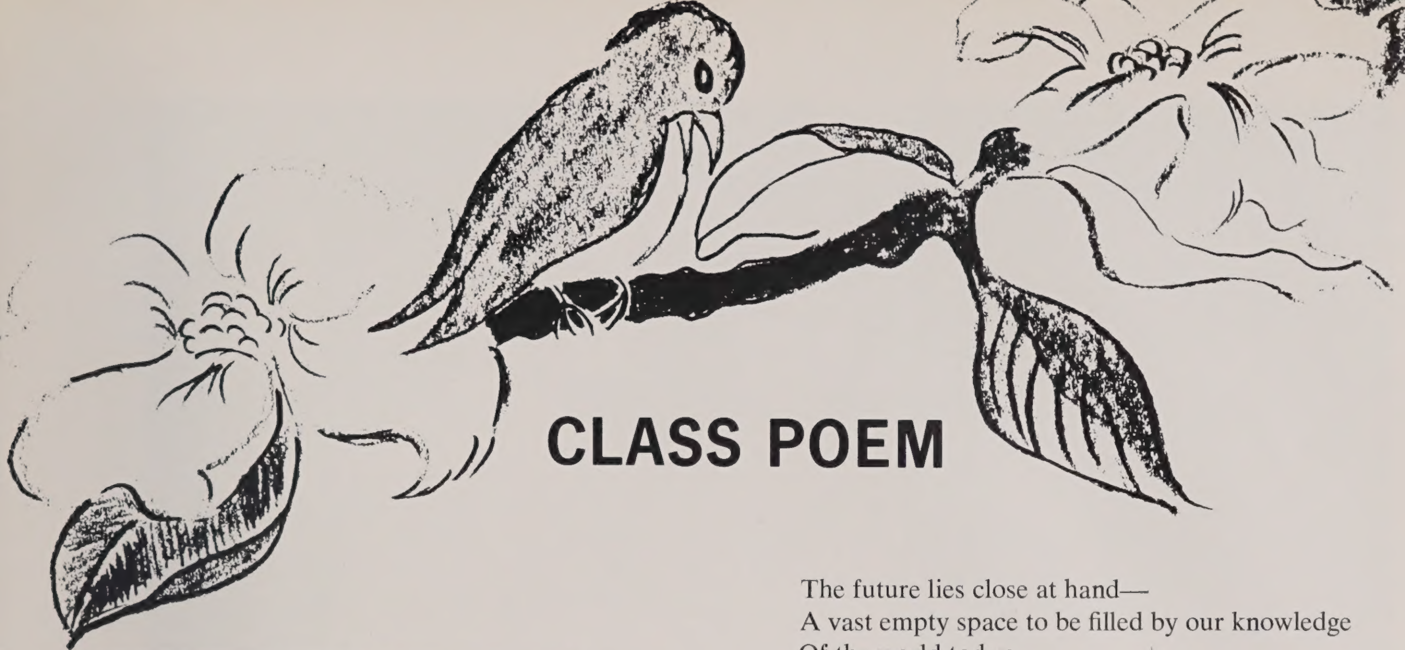
GLEANED THESE YEARS WILL CARRY US ALL LIFE THROUGH. O BRIGHTON HIGH, SO
DEAR TO US, WE'RE GOING TO MISS YOU SO. WE'LL ALWAYS CHE-RISH
MEM'RIES OF YOU WHER- E- VER WE MAY GO.



CLASS POEM

Sea of Glory

DONNA CARPER

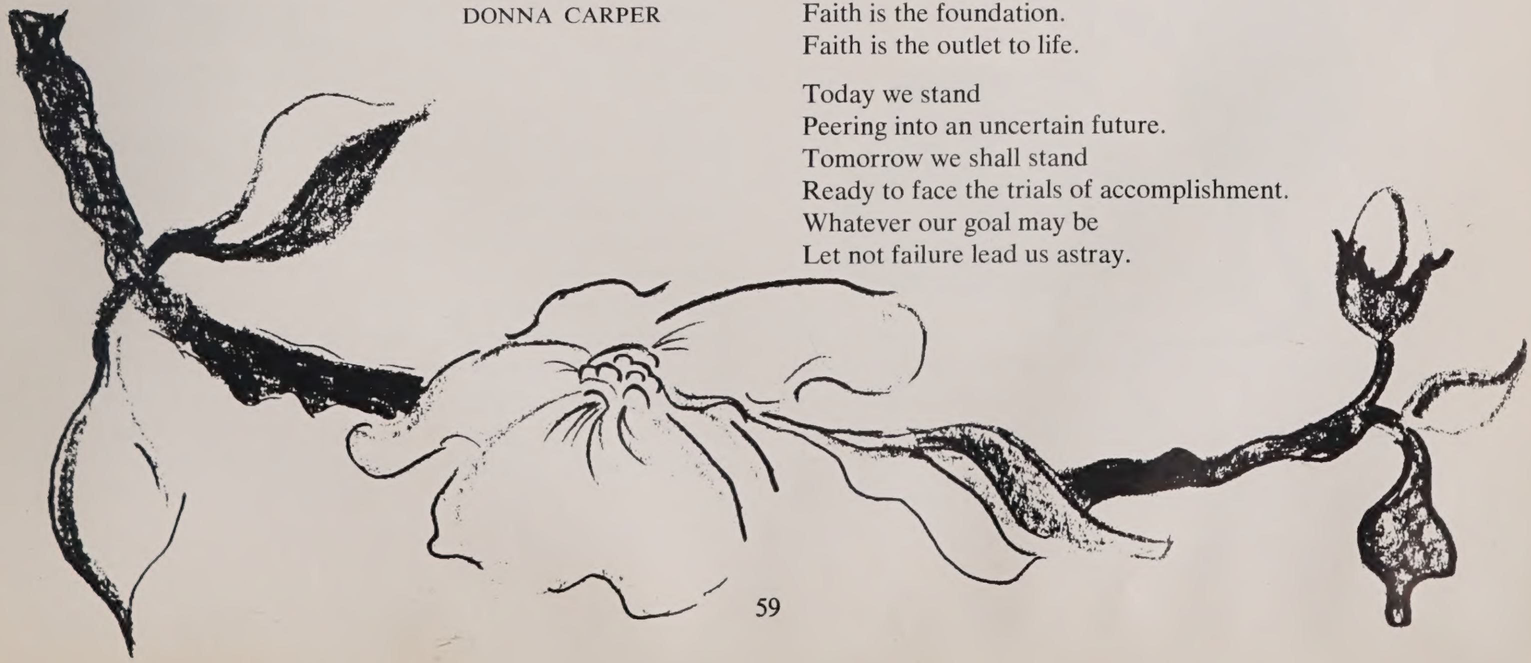
The future lies close at hand—
A vast empty space to be filled by our knowledge
Of the world today.
We are wet clay
Waiting for hands to mold our generation
Into success.

America is ours to stand up for,
Look up to,
Be proud of.
Having few fears,
We seek to uphold a high heritage—
The heritage founded by forefathers,
To be continued by our greatest efforts.

Through hardships,
We strive for a goal of success—
Success in the world,
In our homes,
In ourselves.

Faith now must be near us
A cover against all the evil
That might singe our hopes
With fire.
Faith is the cornerstone.
Faith is the foundation.
Faith is the outlet to life.

Today we stand
Peering into an uncertain future.
Tomorrow we shall stand
Ready to face the trials of accomplishment.
Whatever our goal may be
Let not failure lead us astray.



ROSE BRAVOCO, ELAINE HADDAD, ANDREA BIGNIS

CLASS WILL

We, the graduating class of B.H.S., year 1963, being of sound mind and excellent memory, do hereby proclaim this to be our last will and testament. With this thought in mind, we bequeath the following:

Ruth Catler leaves Doctor Moore a box of her mother's fudge brownies.

E. Ruth Gregory leaves Mr. Bergen, wherever he is, a whole pair of glasses.

Meryl Weiner and Rita Lyle leave Miss Adams a new French flag.

To Mr. Casey, Palma Alfonso leaves one box of slightly used Italian cookies, and Bernadette Comperchio leaves him some baked lasagna.

Gail Harris leaves Mrs. Moore and Miss Marshall her wonderful bouncing personality.

Camille Lombardi leaves the gone, but not forgotten Mr. Weinert, all of her tardy notes so that he may cherish them forever.

Rose A. Bravoco leaves to Mrs. Rowell a package of Juicy Fruit gum.

Elaine Haddad leaves to Room 316 the hope that the homeroom teacher will stay for the entire year.

Lucy Lombardi leaves Doctor Moore her cousin.

Richard Scanlan leaves to Mr. Barry all the sophomores who must learn to say "Yes Sir" and to Mr. Casey he leaves a year's supply of cough drops just in case.

Daryl Collier leaves to Mr. Barry her red hair.

Carlton Oates leaves Mr. Casey his old key chain—to hold his many locker keys.

Richard Helle leaves Mr. Cicciu his grease gun.

Jacqueline Moon leaves Mrs. Woods one slightly used sewing machine, and a broken needle.

Arlene Johnson leaves Mrs. Rowell her typing eraser.

Robert Brown leaves Mr. Sharkey his broken collar bone and all his broken bones hereafter.

Marsha Nerenberg leaves Mr. Shapiro a new singing assistant for choral practice and glee club.

Alex Smith leaves Mr. Sharkey one eligible team of 6′1″ tall basketball players.

To Mr. Casey, George Henegan leaves all of his old report cards.

Richard Hayes leaves Mrs. Larkin all his tardy slips for the years to come.

Wendi Herson leaves Mr. McCabe an invitation to her wedding.

To Mr. McCabe, Peter Dugan leaves 5 hours in detention.

William Harold leaves Mr. Dowell his job for $40 a week.

Linda Rocco leaves all her gum wrappers and a fortune in dimes for her favorite charity to Miss Sullivan.

John Hamilton leaves Mr. Kelliher a pair of ear muffs for those frosty mornings.

Dave White leaves Colonel Sullivan a new set of films.

Larry Levine leaves to Miss Pelletier a tie for boys like himself.

Ann Holmes and Barbara Potter leave to Mr. Healey carbon paper for his next year's group of select seniors.

Andrea Bignis leaves to Mrs. DesAutels thirty-four typewriter key covers for her personal typing class.

To Judith Kelliher, Lois Sheinfeld leaves her brains.

Walter White leaves to some lucky girl in Mrs. Joyce's next homeroom the locker she gave him.

Ann Solov leaves Mr. Bergen her nickname and her bangs (that were always in her eyes.)

Harold Huckaby leaves Miss Donahue an alarm clock for speed tests.

To Mrs. Crutchfield, Arlene Shulman leaves an oversized fireplace for the gym.

Patricia MacLean leaves to Mrs. Joyce a homelesson notebook.

Susan Millman leaves all her apple cores to Mr. Kelliher.

Ann Marie Reardon leaves Mrs. Joyce a lifetime recording of Carol Healey's famous remarks.

Warren Connell and Freddie Marshall leave to B.H.S. all their books.

Frances Kassatly leaves to B.H.S. a carload of boys who look like Ricky Nelson.

Philomena Quinn leaves to the future cheerleaders of B.H.S. fondest hopes and prayers that their year will be as rewarding as hers.

Richard Walsh leaves the willpower to keep flunking seniors to Mr. Passaretti.

Donna Franchetti leaves to Mrs. Rowell her second year shorthand book and congratulations to anyone who can transcribe it.

To Mr. Sharkey, Ed Gaudet leaves all his scrap paper; also a few rubber bands to make his teams more flexible.

Bob Geezil leaves to Mr. Manfra all the good marks he forgot to give him.

Francine Lasky leaves to Lois Sheinfeld a pair of navy blue knee socks that are guaranteed not to fall down.

Jim Peterson leaves to "Yummy" Pesaturo his crutches because he faithfully drove him to school.

Gail Rotman leaves to Marsha Nerenberg a new pair of contact lenses.

Sandra Mercer leaves to Mr. Passaretti peace and quiet in the corridor.

To Mr. Hall, Robert Cormier leaves all of his English homework.

Phillip M. Broshnahan leaves to the Junior Class all his Irish talents.

Dave Wadman leaves Mr. Passaretti 10 lessons at Cowboy Bob's Riding School.

John E. Merrill, Jr. leaves to all the Juniors all his headaches.

Roger L. Joseph leaves to B.H.S. all his hours in detention.

John Bossio leaves his brother to any Junior homeroom teacher, who is lucky enough to get him.

Ruth Coughlin leaves to all the future students of B.H.S. the hope of a ski tow to pull them up the hill during the winter.

June Munafo leaves the bookkeeping classes of the future an adding machine to help them with their problems.

Rosalind McLaughlin leaves to any sophomore all the extra bobbins loaned to her by Mrs. Woods.

Janet A. Chalmers leaves to her successors her best wishes.

Judith Kelliher leaves to some deserving junior twenty-five worn-out ball-point pens without refills.

Richard Smith and David Singleton leave Mr. Passaretti a box of gold cigars.

Paul Babin leaves Mr. Dowell his attendance record.

To Miss Sullivan, Peter Smith leaves all the triangles she'll ever need for her trig class.

Marion Reid leaves to Mr. Kelliher an award for his wonderful analogies.

Robert Gayle leaves Mr. McCabe all the latest dance steps.

John Scannel, Louise Blaine, and Robert Zechello all leave Mr. McCabe their well-worn gym uniforms.

Eileen McKinnon leaves to B.H.S. the students who try to run down the stairs to lunch.

Michael Williams leaves to all the teachers of B.H.S. his calm temperament for which he is noted.

Paulette Beck leaves to Helayne Cotton a "teasing" comb—may her hair never go limp again!

Margaret Maloney leaves to next year's English students models of a year's supply of compositions and essays.

Paul LaVecchia leaves to B.H.S. all his bills.

Paul Max and Irene Tutun leave to Miss Blagdon their tapered stylish gym bloomers and chic sparkling gym blouses.

Andrea Rosenthal leaves to Miss Maguire a new Spanish Dictionary filled with all the words she could not pronounce.

Zoe Zariphes leaves Mr. Kelliher a bust of Cicero.

Richard Nagle leaves to the future seniors of B.H.S. his table in the lunchroom where he sat for three years.

John O'Connor and William Squires leave Mr. Passaretti their brilliant minds.

Edward Campia leaves Mr. Passaretti his well-worn hockey stick.

To Mr. Dowell, Carl Washington leaves his colorful, unmodern ties.

Reinette Bracy leaves to Miss Blagdon a needle, thread, and a thimble, which has proved very useful for three years.

Mary Varakis leaves to Mrs. Boyle many thanks for all her help in getting work.

Venita Goldston leaves Mr. Sharkey one Algebra II book for someone who will put it to better use.

Susan Jaye leaves to B.H.S. the realization that good things come in small packages (4′11″).

Margaret Cosman leaves to the next senior class a larger lunchroom and a longer lunch line.

John Minichiello leaves to the teachers of B.H.S. his looks.

Al Basso leaves to all new sophomores his ledgers and journals.

Frank Martyn leaves Mr. Sharkey a squad of 150 football players for next year.

Carol Healey leaves to Mrs. Joyce all the peace and quiet she never had in her homeroom while she was there.

Mary Winters leaves to Mrs. Rowell all her shorthand homelessons, that she fervently did.

Roberta Krasnow leaves to Mr. Healy all the courteous B.H.S. students from the class of '63.

Jay Kaplan and Mark Bucell leaves to Miss Adams all of their rolled-up sleeves.

James A. McBee leaves to the teachers of B.H.S. his undying sympathy.

Stephen Mulcahy leaves to all the teachers in the Co-op course his homework.

Robert Nichols leaves an all-star track team with no "smokers" to Mr. McCabe.

Mike Coleman leaves to Mr. Sharkey a dozen narrow ties.

Diana Mingolelli leaves to the future students of B.H.S. school spirit and a winning football team.

Kathleen O'Connor leaves to Mrs. Joyce a lock of her hair when she cuts it.

Kay Atkins leaves to Miss Blagdon all her lost gym bloomers and sneakers; also the old basketball which won all of her games.

Mary Gingola leaves to Mrs. Rowell all of her hard earned transcripts.

Arlene Ludensky leaves to Mr. Healy an industrious Biology II class.

Valimore Williams leaves to Mr. Passaretti a textbook without answers.

Vikie L. Sciarappa leaves to all the teachers of B.H.S. the juniors who will take our place.

Nelson Shumsker leaves Miss Donahue a blindfold for next year's typing class.

Carl Andrews, John O'Reilly and Jerry O'Neil leave Mr. Passaretti their debts, extra duties and speeding tickets.

Dale VanDerhei leaves a group of intelligent boy physics students to Mr. Wellings.

To Mr. Ambrose, Tom Hallion leaves all the "A's" which he never seemed to get.

CLASS ORATION

After many weeks and months of anxious expectation Class Day has finally arrived. Graduation will soon be upon us and soon after, the gates of life will open before us. On that momentous occasion, we must fully realize and acknowledge the world that we will be stepping into.

I am sure that our dream of tomorrow's world is a place of happiness, love, and unity. This now is only a dream, however; because, when we think about it, there isn't very much happiness in the world today, is there? Thousands of people die daily for want of food and clothing, and men must daily lay down their lives for pointless, selfish, jealous reasons. No, happiness is not a very plentiful commodity in the world, but we who enjoy it are devoted to the proposition that our posterity shall enjoy it also. Secondly, there isn't much love in the world today, is there? The two greatest world powers are posed, one against the other; threats continually occupy a place in our news, and man's instinct to love his fellow man seems to be waning decidedly. Finally, unity is not very common today, is it? Unions and majorities are continually quibbling, arguing for what? They sometimes do not know. Unity of mind and action seems to be an increasing deficiency in man today. In our world, however, and in our children's world, we wish to look forward to an ever increasing happiness, love and unity.

And what are we going to do about it? How can we help make our lives that way? We must persist in the development of character, cooperation, responsibility, charity, hope, faith, friendliness. These characteristics, reflected in the attitude of each of us, will help make our world of tomorrow.

Let us remember, as we follow our ways of life, our indebtedness to our parents, our friends, our relatives, to the clergy and to any other people who have made it their sole objective to see that we are able one day in the very near future to face life on our own. Grateful we are to them, and grateful we shall be to those who help us along life's tempestuous ways. Our success shall be their reward, and memories of them shall be our treasures.

We all hope to achieve that golden goal—success; and success is riches, but riches are not money. Many of us will some day become college graduates, some businessmen, some service career men; but regardless of our walk of life, we can all have riches. Our riches will be the joys we shall derive from jobs well done, the experience we shall attain from simply being with other people, the education we shall get from life itself. These are riches, our riches, that cannot be stolen, cannot be taxed, cannot be destroyed. They are ours to have for eternity!

Many things there are indeed that we must strive to attain in the future. Some are Wisdom, for without that, we are not worthy to have the gift of life; Reverence, for without that, no respect is given anyone or anything; Honesty, a quality all too lacking in many people today, and finally, Service. Service to fellow man can be one of our most heartening rewards, and in helping others we are fostering the love, happiness and unity that we so dearly desire in our new world. We would strive to give service like that given us, we would strive to serve our friends, our families, our communities and in general our fellow man.

The essence of our future is what we can give to the world, the world which awaits us. Let me close with this quotation from a now well-known prayer by Sir Alec Paterson with the hope that it will remain with you always, "O God, help us to be masters of ourselves that we may be the servants of others. Amen."

CLASS PROPHECY

"TRIP AROUND THE WORLD"

It all began one morning in 1985 when we were looking through the morning newspaper, and saw an ad which read: "Make your dream trip around the world come true! Let Trans-Universe fly you anywhere you wish!"

We lost no time seeing the advertising agent, our former classmate from Brighton High School, Michael Coleman, who gave us all the details about the trip and explained how it could be arranged. The idea was so exciting that we decided to investigate it further; that evening after work, we went to see our accountant, Peter Kingman, about our money and expenses. Finding everything in order and nothing to hold us back, we decided what countries we wanted to see, then began making final arrangements.

The day we received our foreign inoculations from that healthy, wealthy, and wise physician, Doctor Philip Cahan, marked the start of our trip. After we left his office, we drove directly to Logan Space-port. As we entered the parking lot we saw a group of people; namely, William Lembo, Everett Dockett, Joel Shifman, Paul Harrold, Paul Canaletti, Michael Dindy, and Vincent Masone, Jr., the automotive specialists of the space-port, who were ready to service any vehicle. On our way through the gates we had our tickets inspected by a very tall woman, Marilyn Owens, another former classmate. After walking up the ramp of the tremendous six-jet engine space plane, we were escorted to our seats by stewardess Barbara O'Donnell. Then a final check from chief aviation mechanic, Joseph Iarossi, the last-minute weather information from meteorologist, Bernard Delaney, and our plane took off.

Once were were in the air, nurse Faye Skinner, checked all the passengers to see that all was well. Everyone relaxed, and the pilot turned on the plane television. Because of poor reception it had to be fixed by the plane's T. V. repairman, Stephen McNamara. The rest of our flight was quite enjoyable.

Our first stop was England. After we saw "Big Ben," one of our companions, the secretary to the President's wife, Alice Fenner, tripped and sprained her ankle in Picadilli Circus. Two nurses, Beverly Antone and Rita Lyle, assisted her back to the plane just in time for the take-off.

The next stop on our excursion was gay Paree. We walked our feet sore seeing the Eiffel Tower, the Arc de Triumphe, Notre Dame, and other famous sights. It was just the way we had dreamed it would be back in high school. Judith Jerome, a nurse from the French Foreign Legion, joined us in our sight-seeing tour. We went to another famous tourist attraction, the Ecole de Louvre, where we met a good friend and well-known artist, Janice Collins, who gave us a little background of her famous works and told us of two other old friends of ours, Richard McCarthy, and Edward Gillen, who were great successes in their fields.

We were in the air again traveling to the "big boot," Italy, when we had a chance to communicate with some of our fellow passengers. We chatted with Anita Becker, and Donald Gorman, a great success in his business enterprise. Then we talked to Carolyn Jensen, a hairdresser to a famous European actress; Leo Welch, a famous mechanical draftsman, who had just completed a contract in France; Dale Van Derhei, that "mad mathematician" from Wall Street, New York; Carol Olson, a pediatric nurse at Blair Hospital; Jean Davidson, a dental hygienist who takes care of Ben Casey's teeth; and many more interesting people.

We were now in Rome. During our short stopover in this magnificent city, we had the thrilling experience of watching the United Councils of Professors in their annual meeting. Among the numerous foreign teachers and priests at the meeting, we recognized two distinguished teachers from our old Alma Mater, Larry Levine, who was representing Israel, and Edward Eccleston, who was representing the United States. Also at the meeting we saw school teacher Sandra McFerson, who was in Italy to interview the great mathematician, Peter Strugazow, and his secretary, Karen Kane, in regard to his one-million-volume library.

Time flew and before we knew it, we were in Greece. We weren't too surprised to see Toola Kondos, and Patricia O'Leary, two pediatric nurses, caring for some little children, who were waiting for their mothers at the spaceport. With them were medical technologists, Ann Holmes, and Ellen Libby, and a physical therapist. Joan Belton. It seems that all those familiar faces were in Greece for the Annual International Doctors and Nurses Convention. We departed from our friends and began touring the intricate city of Athens. On our way, we met, and it wouldn't be too impolite to say, a very chubby friend, Janet Long; we were glad to see that she had achieved her ambition of packing on the pounds. We also met two other friends from the states, mathematics teacher, Susan Henessian, and teacher, Grace Walenti. They informed us that they were assisting in the planning of a new nuclear plant, which was being built in Athens by three engineers, Alan Taylor, Stephen McLean, and Leo Murphy. On our way back to the plane, we got lost. Not knowing anyone in a strange city, we didn't know whom to ask for directions. Finally we met a very sensible gentleman, a Mr. Wayne Franklin, who directed us to the space-port. While boarding the plane, we encountered a very happily married man, James Onorato, who told us that he was going back to the U. S. to see his wife after having taken an extended vacation.

Our flight to California was long and sad, for we knew that in a few hours our trip would be terminated; however, once we got there the excitement turned our thoughts to gaiety. It was quite interesting to tour all the super-nuclear power missile bases and see the operations behind them. For instance, I. B. M. workers, Donna Murphy, and Carol Ann Smith, showed us how special communication data for the missiles were processed. At night we went to the Blue Palace entertainment hall where we saw a wonderful show, plus many celebrities. The show was headed by Cameron McNeil, the best dancer in the U. S. A. We also met such stars as sportscaster, Mark Gornstein; Anthony Mercuri, the second Ted Williams; Arthur Howard, the only circuit judge in the East; and James Purcell, the owner of a trans-continental truck company.

We were sorry to leave California, but Florida, our final stop before the end of the trip, was very glamorous also. On world-famous Miami Beach, we were taken by surprise when we saw two people with whom we had graduated from high school. Jean Matthews was living there as a housewife, while Donna Carper was just passing through on her way to South America, where she was offering her services as a medical missionary. Before ending our trip, we had to look up an old friend, John Warsowick, who owned a garage there. We found him in the middle of putting a new carburetor in an antediluvian 1963 Cadillac. Some of the automotive engineers working with him were Richard Steeves, Rosario Di Bella, William Chauncey, and Joseph Cannone. His chief trouble shooter, John Taylor, was also there. We said good-bye to the boys, for our scheduled flight was waiting to whisk us back to good old "bean town."

After the hour and a half ride from Miami to Boston, we were exhausted. Drearily we went home and everything was down to earth once more. We relieved the two firemen, Kenneth Sampson and William Hegarty, from duty, and thanked them for watching over our homes while we were gone.

We had met a great many people on our trip. The funny part is that, as a matter of coincidence, they were all graduates in Brighton High School's Class of 1963.

This whole adventure had been wonderful, and we know that we shall never forget our trip around the world.

CLASS HISTORY

Here we are at last, not mere underclassmen, but seniors, the graduates of the class of '63. It seems as if it were just yesterday that we sat in this school for the very first time, nervous and anxious, wondering what our future would be. Well, three years have now passed and we know that all our worries were in vain, for although we had our ups and downs as sophomores, we had many a good time. We were not the only additions to Brighton High School. Along with us came such people as Mr. Dailey, head of the Mathematics Department, Miss Pelletier, head of the French Department, and Mr. Bergen, head of the History Department. Some new men also joined the Co-operative Department: Mr. Beninati, Mr. Cicciu, and Mr. Messuri.

Belonging to Brighton High School made us acquainted with many new and wonderful people, now our good friends. We were a cosmopolitan group. Not only did we have students from the greater Boston area, but we had a student from Ecuador, Antonio Ferugo, and one from Ireland, Anthony Reynolds.

Socially, we were better than most. I am sure we all remember the first time we voted for the most popular sophomores in the Towers' "Who's Who" column: Andrea Bignis, Fred Marshall, and Phillip Brosnahn.

Aside from the social viewpoint, we were intellectual as well. It was quite an honor when one of our sophomores, Michelle Spicknall took third place in our Science Fair. Michelle, whose father is an Army doctor, left us to go to Germany with her parents. Losing Michelle was a great disappointment to us all.

We gathered courage and sponsored a Science Forum under the direction of Mr. Wellings. Among the participants were Dennis Flynn, Andrea Rosenthal, and Peter Smith.

When summer came, we realized that soon we would be juniors and mighty proud ones at that.

As juniors we approached the "Castle on the Hill" with an air of confidence and assurance. Quickly getting readjusted to school curriculum, we set ourselves to the task at hand, learning. Soon the first report cards were passed out, the football season was behind us, and again we watched the traditional Christmas Pageant. As in every year we were proud of the accomplishments of all our athletic teams, but our hockey team gave us special reason to swell our chests and hold our heads high. For the first time in the history of the school, we were District Champions, undefeated and untied. Some of the members of our class who helped us achieve this great feat were Frank Martyn, Fred Marshall, Gubba Mercuri, Andy Gluba, and Ed Campia.

February, March, and April came and went in a whirl of homework, tests, and report cards, club meetings, and assemblies. On May 15, four students from the Co-operative Course took part in the Plymouth Trouble-Shooting Contest. We were justifiably proud of Carl Washington, Don Waldman, James McBee, and William Chauncey who finished eighth in a field of twenty-two. Swiftly the time passed and with the advent of summer just around the corner, Nadene Hurwitz was elected President of the Student Council. As June came upon us the vivacious junior cheerleaders were elected. They included Lucy Lombardi, Gloria Alvanos, Cynthia Buchanan, Ruth Coughlin, Janet Davidian, Donna Franchetti, Toola Kondos, with Pat Reeves as co-captain, and Philomena Quinn as captain.

Upon returning to Brighton High School after a fun-filled summer, we found that we had new teachers to greet us. Among these were Mr. Hynes, Mr. Weiner, Mr. Donahue, Miss Shulman, and Mr. Hall. We were sorry to see some of our teachers leave. Mr. Bergen left to become head of the History Department at Boy's Latin School. Mr. Weiner, after his short but fruitful stay, returned to Boy's Latin School as head of the Math Department. Miss Fee, our secretary at Brighton High School for many years, retired.

Marsha Nerenberg became Editor-in-Chief of the Towers as well as one of our four co-editors in the Gothic. The other three are Judith Kelliher, Linda Stevenson, and Peter Smith.

The presidents of our clubs were selected as follows: Art Club; John Hamilton, Current Events Club; Judith Kelliher, French Club; Marsha Nerenberg, Math-Science Club; Peter Strugazow, Reading Club; Andrea Feinberg.

With a big cheer, our football season began. In our autumn games, we achieved fourth place in the District League. Our track team, with Larry Levine at the head, had a successful season. Although our hockey team was not quite as successful as last year's, we know that placing fourth in the District League will set the foundation for next year.

School days passed and Fred Marshall won our vote to represent Brighton High School in Student Government Day. Ruth Coughlin won the Betty Crocker Homemakers contest, and Janice Collins, new to our school this year, won honor for herself and the school by becoming a Hallmark Nominee, as well as a Scholarship nominee for her art work.

January elections started with campaigns, and candidates made promises as they handed out their campaign cards for their supporters to wear. Then when the counting of the ballots was checked and rechecked these class members were elected: Gordon Morrison; President, James Peterson; Vice-President, Patricia Reeves; Secretary, Ruth Coughlin; Treasurer, for the Executive Committee: Roger Danis, Frank Martyn, and Jacqueline Moon.

To prepare for our Class Day five Class Marshalls were elected: Lucy Lombardi, Donna Franchetti, Toola Kondos, Ann Solov, and Marilyn Owens.

Now on Class Day, as the Prom and Graduation Day draw near, we are sad because we have to leave the friends we've made and this school. But even as we push ahead into the future and our chosen vocations, we will always remember that Brighton High School set the foundation on which we built our lives.

A TELEPHONE JOB OFFERS BOTH CAREER AND SOCIAL SATISFACTION

WITHOUT BREAKING STRIDE,
why not graduate from high school to the Telephone Company? You'll love the friendly young people who'll work with you, and the many social activities that make your work so pleasant and rewarding.

OPPORTUNITY IS EXCELLENT
and your ability will be recognized. Your starting salary should climb with regular increases. And, of course, Company benefits, security, and regular advancement are well-known reasons why working for the Telephone Company is so attractive to graduates.

TELEPHONE JOBS ARE IMPORTANT,
vital to the effective communications of the community, the nation, and the world. When you take your place as a respected member of the telephone community, we'll train you, on full salary, even without previous job experience.

Why not come and see our employment interviewer soon . . . before you graduate? Ask your Guidance Counselor to tell you when and where to apply.
